

Endurance season begins with preliminary race

Nov 6 2014
By dtnews

Under the patronage of Bahrain Royal Equestrian and Endurance Federation (BREEF) Honorary President and Bahrain Royal Endurance Team leader HH Shaikh Nasser bin Hamad Al Khalifa, the 2014-2015 endurance season will start on Saturday with the Preliminary Endurance Race at the Bahrain International Endurance Village in Sakhir. Shaikh Nasser gave his directives to the BREEF board to prepare for the new campaign by providing all the potential riders to the stables. He stressed the new endurance season will be an exciting one and that the level of competition will be high, due to the early preparations from the stables, riders and their horses.

He praised the early preparations and processing made by BREEF, headed by its president Shaikh Faisal bin Rashid Al Khalifa, for the opening of the new season. He stressed that this race is considered to be one of the most important races of the year and expects the season to be one of the best ever. Shaikh Nasser added the opening race is an opportunity for the riders to gauge their level of readiness for the new year, pointing out that the Royal Team is all set and ready to compete for the season's titles and aim for some impressive achievements.

He also assured that the endurance season races need special preparations and strategies, adding that the Royal Team have trained and prepared according to several plans which will be implemented during the races this season. The Royal Team seeks to achieve first places and to finish with an impressive campaign. Shaikh Nasser also praised the efforts by all to prepare the horses and riders for the upcoming season.

Share This